CITY OF CORDOVA

SUBJECT: Fiscal Year (FY) 2016 Budget Executive Summary:

From: Randy E. Robertson, City Manager

Economically we see FY2016 as a year of incredible opportunity, but riddled with enormous challenges. In this budget you'll see some of the things that make up this statement. Here's an abbreviated version:

The City of Cordova ended FY 2015 in good shape. Sales taxes held true to forecasts made at the start of the year and remained favorable across Cordova-based businesses. Property taxes also were up as a result of continued appreciation and growth in the city. Overall the number of building permits remained firm with several issued for larger revenue-generating businesses or projects. The city's fish taxes were down, but that was expected after coming off a banner year. We continued to see a steady revenue stream from the sale or leasing of city properties, while fees within virtually every City Department were at or above their 2014 level. Possibly the year's highlight was completing the decade old Cordova Center project. This near $29m initiative is a center piece not only in Cordova, but across the cities, towns and villages of South Central Alaska. Phase 1 and its related costs, which was over $16m, is completely paid for, and Phase 2's costs, which were near $13m, have slightly over $1m remaining to be paid. What a wonderful success story for a city of our size! The exciting news is that now, after a decade of planning and construction, the Cordova Center will be put into play for the economic vitality of our city. Conferences, plays, movies, increased patronage, visitors, associated revenue for fuel, restaurants and hotels . . . all have seen an upswing thanks in large measure to the Cordova Center.

FY 2016 promises to be one of the most financially challenging the City of Cordova, or for that matter any municipality in the State of Alaska, has faced in years. The primary difficulties lie in the common denominator between all cities, state provided revenue. At this writing the State of Alaska is somewhere around $4bs in the red in the upcoming FY2017 budget. That is a huge number, and one that will directly influence the financial coffers of every Alaskan city. So far we know funds for jail operations were slashed by over $100k, and there is a distinct prospect our portion of the state's revenue sharing will see large reductions. Ancillary to the state budget are the on-going discussions of service reductions to the schedule of the Alaska Marine Highway System, which will have a direct impact on travel, tourism and consumer goods pricing here in Cordova and elsewhere across coastal communities.

Another "bogey" looming on the financial horizon is the possible sun setting of the federal Timber Receipt funds. In Cordova, timber receipts comprise a sizeable share of the overall funding stream for the Cordova School System, as it does for many cities across the state. Specifically, nearly $750k in federal dollars went to our schools and roads as a product of Timber Receipts. The possible loss of that revenue source is a major concern since the city would be looking to internal capabilities to make up those up.

A final service and programming element we'll have to carefully watch this year is the Cordova Community Medical Center (CCMC). In 2015, the City helped CCMC underwrite its operational activities to the tune of nearly $1m. On top of that, the City is already paying the expenses for the management contract with Quorum Healthcare (QHR), the nation's largest healthcare management organization. While city contributions to CCMC noticeably increased last year, with the identification of a rigorous financial plan of action coupled with QHR's assistance, the City Council is looking to aggressively control the City's financial "footprint" at CCMC.

Independent but in recognition of the fiscal challenges that we see in 2016, City Council has wisely determined to continue investing in our future. Capital funding priorities this year include paying off the debt associated with the Cordova Center, underwriting replacement of and upgrades to the windows at the Mt. Eccles Elementary School, and fixing the roof at the Bob Korn Pool. Collectively we see somewhere between $1.4m and $1.5m in capital improvement projects undertaken this year. Parallel to that we will be continue making major facility improvements to the City's Baler, undertake extensive street and road repairs financed by a 2015 citizen approved referendum, and complete the Ocean Harbor Dock repairs through insurance and Harbor Fund sources. Cordova is on the move!

With every challenge comes opportunities, and 2016 has lots of fiscal opportunities. However, in spite of dollars, resources, funding streams, budgets and all the components that go to make up the economy of Cordova, there is one constant that has not and will not change. Your "Team Cordova" is thoroughly dedicated to serving our citizens to the fullest, best extent possible. Cordova is an absolutely wonderful place to live, work and play. For those of you who might be looking for a place with unbridled potential, Cordova is the place to be.

Most Respectfully,

Randy Robertson
City Manager
